Registrations now open

Registrations for the 6th National Housing Conference have now opened online here

The conference is a must for everyone involved in Australia's housing policy and practice, including policy makers, housing and allied service providers, residents, planners and not-for-profit housing and homelessness organisations, together with the private sector.

Take advantage of the special early bird rate before 30 June and save up to $330!

Conference dinner

The social highlight of the Conference will be a dinner at NGV International on Wednesday 25 November 2009.

Located in the iconic Melbourne building on St Kilda Road, opposite the beautiful Royal Botanic Gardens, guests will pass Sir Roy Grounds' original water wall before beginning the evening with pre dinner drinks and entertainment in the gallery's Federation Court.

Guests will then move to The Great Hall, which features Leonard French's stunning stained glass ceiling and access to the gallery's landscape gardens.

Providing a change of venue and pace from the program, delegates and their guests can relax and enjoy this evening of special entertainment, and local food and wine, whilst networking with fellow colleagues and peers.

Tickets are $135 per person and can be purchased here

Sponsorship and exhibition opportunities

Take advantage of the sponsorship and exhibition opportunities available at the 6th National Housing Conference. By having a strong, active presence at this important Conference, your company or organisation will benefit significantly from exposure to an interested, relevant and influential audience.
